THE BIRTH

You were born into a world made of Wood.

The year of your birth — 乙卯, the Wooden Rabbit — was a year of quiet growth and hidden roots. The world you entered was one that valued flexibility over force, patience over urgency, the steady climb of bamboo over the sudden crash of thunder. And so before you were old enough to choose, the shape of your earliest world pressed itself into you like a seal into warm wax.

But underneath the Wood world you were born into, something else was running. Something older and colder and more vast.
